Sandra Panara has both a deep and wide understanding of Corporate Real Estate and Technology. She can apply non-traditional approaches to extract deep learning from the most unsuspecting places in order to drive strategy.

She has developed an appreciation for always challenging the status quo to provoke and encourage new ways of thinking that drive continuous improvement and innovation.

Sandra believes square pegs can fit into round holes and that the real 'misfits' are those that fail to adapt.

Her deep knowledge in CRE Analytics to surface key insights have helped many Fortune 500 companies inform their workforce and location planning, space and occupancy planning, and global workplace strategies.
